placed the bomb which on Wednesday night damaged the portico of the new Bronx Court House and slightly injured four persons. This is the theory of the who, after finding among the debris fragments of an anarchist publication issued shortly after Czolgosz shot President McKinley, decided that the bomb probably came from the same source as those that were exploded in St. Patrick's Cathedral and at the rectory of St. Alphonsus's Church on the anniversary of the execution of Francisco Ferrer, October 13. Inspector Owen of the bureau of combustibles said that the bomb that damaged the court house was of similar ion to those exploded at the

After finding and piecing together the fragments of the pamphlet the detectives recalled that Wednesday was the twenty-seventh anniversary of the execution of Haymarket rioters at Chicago and the Haymarket rioters at Chicago and that there were meetings at Forward Hall Wednesday night in commemoration of the death of the "Chicago Martyrs."

That was the title of the pamphlet, which was printed in Spanish. When it was pieced together in the office of Capt. Wines of The Bronx detective bureau the pamphing was found to contain an arread pamphlet was found to contain an appeal for vengeance against those who brought the Haymarket leaders to the gallows. Capt. Wines recalled that such a Capt. Wines recalled that such a pamphlet, printed in Spanish, German and Italian, had been issued by L'Huroco Club of Paterson and sent to the Mother Earth, the anarchist publication, then in East Thirteenth street, for distribution. The pamphlet was evidently brought out or reprinted with additions much later than the executions in Chicago, which took place on November 11, 1887, for it contained a reference to Caslava. It was ained a reference to Czolgosz. It was by the detectives that the publication widely distributed at the very time that the country was clamoring for the wiping out of the "Reds" following the assassination of President McKinley.

Emma Goldman, Publisher.

At the office of the Mother Earth Publication Association, now at 74 West 119th street, it was said that nothing was known h a pamphlet. Emma Goldman is her and Alexander Berkman is of Mother Earth. Miss Goldman !s said to be in Chicago and Berkman is in Pittsburg, whither he went with the an-nounced intention of lecturing on the an-niversary of his shooting of Henry Frick. In spite of their absence the meeting in Forward Hall to celebrate the anniversary of the execution of the Haymarket rioters was a lively one, and Harry Kelly, who with Leonard Abbott shouldered the burden of speechmaking, waved a rhetorical red flag as vigorously as Berkman might have. At the office of Mother Earth it was said:

"We do hold the church responsible for the execution of Francisco Ferrer, and we hold the courts responsible for and we hold the courts responsible for the Haymarket executions. The one was church murder; the other judicial mur-

Before the fragments of the pamphlet were found the police held the belief that the explosion had been intended to injure or intimidate County Judge Louis D. Gibbs, who was holding a late session in the court at the time and whose severe sentences of men convicted of being white slavers have brought him many threatening letters. And even after the pamphlet had directed attention to the anarchist colony of Paterson the detectives were state university.

Men in Automobile.

The bomb twisted the heavy bronze pillar at the left of the main entrance from its place, chipped the pedestal above the door upon which is a figure of Justice, and shattered the bronze grill work at either side of the entrance. The damage is estimated at several thousand dollars. Catherine and Lillian Flynn of 3195 Third avenue, who were knocked down and slightly hurt by the explosion, told the detectives that just before the bomb went off they saw an automobile standing near the court house. As they gained their feet after the explosion, the bomb went off they saw an automobile standing near the court house. As they gained their feet after the explosion, the girls said, they saw several men jump into the auto, which went at speed down mended the appointment of Dr. Mezes as mended the appointment of Dr. Mezes as the mend

Another witness of the explosion was a real estate dealer, of 987 ast 165th street, who was standing in front of a cigar store across the street from the court house when the bomb let go. At that moment, he said, he saw Secretary

Miss Ethel Edwards, 19, of 311 East 188th street brought a carefully wrapped package the size of a brick into the Bronx Park police station. She carried it gingerly and told Lieut. Carter that she had found it on her dresser, and as she had recently rejected a suitor, she believed it was a bomb.
Lieut. Carter told her that he had no jurisdiction over unexploded bombs and referred her to the Bronx detective bureau in 158th street. Miss Edwards

she walked down, holding it at arm's the Meadow Brook colony and raiser of fine chickens, whose home is on Palace Boulevard, Bayside, L. I., was yesterday served with papers in a suit for damages of $500 started by Mrs. Mary T. Merchant of Lawrence Boulevard, Bayside, wife of Huntington W. Merchant, a lawyer with offices at 165 Broadway, for the alleged killing of a dog. In her complaint Mrs. Merchant sets forth that 'the defendant, the plaintiff's neighbor, intentionally, mallciously and wantonly did cause to be injured the dog owned by the plaintiff so as to cause its destruction." It appears that Mr. Bell had been complaining for several weeks about dogs interfering with his chickens. Mrs. Merchant was the owner of three collies until five days ago, when one of them, a puppy seven months old, came home so badly wounded by a bullet as to make its killing necessary for humanitarian reasons.
